DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1,3-10 and 12-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gilbert (used in previous office action) in view of Haynes (used in previous office action).

Gilbert discloses a well tool having a cutting tool 91, a sealing device 17 and an anchor 13. The sealing means of Gilbert are not of the cup type. Haynes teaches the use of cup seals arranged in reverse direction to one another to isolate a zone. It would have been obvious to replace the seal means 17 of Gilbert with the cup seal means of Haynes since they are equivalent parts for performing equivalent functions and cup seals are more easily manufactured and operated than inflatable seals. As to claim 3, the device is carried on a drill string 21. As to claim 4, seal means 17 seals the annulus between the drill string and the casing. As to claims 5-10, Haynes also discloses a circulation sub 46 below the upper seals and above the lower seals. It would have been obvious to provide Gilbert with a circulation sub since use of the spaced cup seals would require a circulation sub to circulate fluid. As to claim 12, anchor 13 is laterally extendable. As to claim 13, surface 51 is a high-friction surface for engaging casing. As to claim 14, surfaces 51 are radial casing-contacting surfaces.

Claim 11 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gilbert in view of Haynes as applied to claims 1,3-10 and 12-14 above, and further in view of Raghaven or Hansen et al (both used in previous office action).

Gilbert in view of Haynes is considered to disclose all of the claimed features except for the cutting tool being a jet cutter. It would have been considered obvious to replace the cutting tool of Gilbert with a jet cutting tool as taught by Raghaven or Hansen since the cutting tools are considered equivalent parts for performing equivalent functions.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 15-25 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 8/20/07 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that cup packers and inflatable packers are not equivalents. Bouligny has been cited to clearly show that inflatable packers and cup packers are interchangeable. Applicant also argues that the two references are not from the same field and are non-analogous. This is not concurred with. Clearly both patents are in the oil field and are considered analogous art. Lastly, applicant argues that if the inflatable seal of Gilbert were replaced with cup seals, the rotation of the string would cause wear and ultimately failure of the cup seals. Cornette has been cited to show that it is known to mount cup seals to rotating strings without failure.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
